ON THIS TOUR, you'll make a grand circle around Paris, visiting cathedrals and the great châteaux, as well as tasting the finest champagne in the world. You'll travel through the Ile de France, an area beloved by French royalty, who built the great châteaux of Fontainebleau, Vaux-le-Vicomte and Versailles here. It's an area where you stroll through the formal gardens of André le Nôtre, which are as appealing now as they were three centuries ago. Later, you'll explore the caves of Champagne, where the great vintages can be tasted. There's an abundance of Gothic cathedrals, a museum to horses and horse racing, and medieval streets to explore. You'll walk in the footsteps of Joan of Arc and Gustave Flaubert, inhabit Madame Bovary's world, and see Claude Monet's beloved water lilies. This exploration is for those who love France's majestic architectural heritage, its very best vineyards and its well-preserved past.
ON THIS TOUR, you'll make a grand circle around Paris, visiting cathedrals and the great châteaux, as well as tasting the finest champagne in the world. You'll travel through the Ile de France, an area beloved by French royalty, who built the great châteaux of Fontainebleau, Vaux-le-Vicomte and Versailles here. It's an area where you stroll through the formal gardens of André le Nôtre, which are as appealing now as they were three centuries ago. Later, you'll explore the caves of Champagne, where the great vintages can be tasted. There's an abundance of Gothic cathedrals, a museum to horses and horse racing, and medieval streets to explore. You'll walk in the footsteps of Joan of Arc and Gustave Flaubert, inhabit Madame Bovary's world, and see Claude Monet's beloved water lilies. This exploration is for those who love France's majestic architectural heritage, its very best vineyards and its well-preserved past.
CHÂTEAU DE FONTEINEBLEAU—
Ubique le Vieux, Château de Fontainebleau is not the work of a single architect but rather a collaborative effort among many. The basilique Notre-Dame, the Great Twin Towers, and the Salle du Trône are probably the most famous structures, but the château itself is a vast complex of buildings. The Hall of Mirrors, perhaps the most famous space, is a pastiche of medieval and Renaissance architecture, with its textbook examples of flying buttresses, fine stonework, and intricate wood carvings. Perhaps the most famous room in the château is the Hall of Mirrors, which dates from the 13th century and is a pastiche of medieval and Renaissance architecture. It was the dream of Francois I into a style the Renaissance would call "l'antique," and it is thought to be one of the most civilized strolls in France. Inside, you will find the Sala del Trono, the Salle des Batailles, and the Salon des Muses, each with its own unique features and historical significance.

CHÂTEAU DE VINCENNES—
Built by King Louis XIV as a hunting lodge, the château was completed in 1662 and is now a museum dedicated to the history of France. The château is a testament to the grandeur of the French monarchy and the art of the Enlightenment. The château is now a museum and is open to the public.

CHÂTEAU DE LA VINEUIL—
This is the site of one of the most famous châteaux in France, with its magnificent gardens and the famous "Salle du Trône." The château is now a museum and is open to the public.

CHÂTEAU DE VAL-DE-LOCOMOTIVE—
This is the site of one of the most famous châteaux in France, with its magnificent gardens and the famous "Salle du Trône." The château is now a museum and is open to the public.

CHÂTEAU DE VERSAILLES—
This is the site of one of the most famous châteaux in France, with its magnificent gardens and the famous "Salle du Trône." The château is now a museum and is open to the public.

CHÂTEAU DE FONTAINEBLEAU—
Ubique le Vieux, Château de Fontainebleau is not the work of a single architect but rather a collaborative effort among many. The basilique Notre-Dame, the Great Twin Towers, and the Salle du Trône are probably the most famous structures, but the château itself is a vast complex of buildings. The Hall of Mirrors, perhaps the most famous space, is a pastiche of medieval and Renaissance architecture, with its textbook examples of flying buttresses, fine stonework, and intricate wood carvings. Perhaps the most famous room in the château is the Hall of Mirrors, which dates from the 13th century and is a pastiche of medieval and Renaissance architecture. It was the dream of Francois I into a style the Renaissance would call "l'antique," and it is thought to be one of the most civilized strolls in France. Inside, you will find the Sala del Trono, the Salle des Batailles, and the Salon des Muses, each with its own unique features and historical significance.

CHÂTEAU DE VINCENNES—
Built by King Louis XIV as a hunting lodge, the château was completed in 1662 and is now a museum dedicated to the history of France. The château is a testament to the grandeur of the French monarchy and the art of the Enlightenment. The château is now a museum and is open to the public.

CHÂTEAU DE LA VINEUIL—
This is the site of one of the most famous châteaux in France, with its magnificent gardens and the famous "Salle du Trône." The château is now a museum and is open to the public.

CHÂTEAU DE VERSAILLES—
This is the site of one of the most famous châteaux in France, with its magnificent gardens and the famous "Salle du Trône." The château is now a museum and is open to the public.

CHÂTEAU DE FONTAINEBLEAU—
Ubique le Vieux, Château de Fontainebleau is not the work of a single architect but rather a collaborative effort among many. The basilique Notre-Dame, the Great Twin Towers, and the Salle du Trône are probably the most famous structures, but the château itself is a vast complex of buildings. The Hall of Mirrors, perhaps the most famous space, is a pastiche of medieval and Renaissance architecture, with its textbook examples of flying buttresses, fine stonework, and intricate wood carvings. Perhaps the most famous room in the château is the Hall of Mirrors, which dates from the 13th century and is a pastiche of medieval and Renaissance architecture. It was the dream of Francois I into a style the Renaissance would call "l'antique," and it is thought to be one of the most civilized strolls in France. Inside, you will find the Sala del Trono, the Salle des Batailles, and the Salon des Muses, each with its own unique features and historical significance.

CHÂTEAU DE VINCENNES—
Built by King Louis XIV as a hunting lodge, the château was completed in 1662 and is now a museum dedicated to the history of France. The château is a testament to the grandeur of the French monarchy and the art of the Enlightenment. The château is now a museum and is open to the public.

CHÂTEAU DE LA VINEUIL—
This is the site of one of the most famous châteaux in France, with its magnificent gardens and the famous "Salle du Trône." The château is now a museum and is open to the public.

CHÂTEAU DE VERSAILLES—
This is the site of one of the most famous châteaux in France, with its magnificent gardens and the famous "Salle du Trône." The château is now a museum and is open to the public.

CHÂTEAU DE FONTAINEBLEAU—
Ubique le Vieux, Château de Fontainebleau is not the work of a single architect but rather a collaborative effort among many. The basilique Notre-Dame, the Great Twin Towers, and the Salle du Trône are probably the most famous structures, but the château itself is a vast complex of buildings. The Hall of Mirrors, perhaps the most famous space, is a pastiche of medieval and Renaissance architecture, with its textbook examples of flying buttresses, fine stonework, and intricate wood carvings. Perhaps the most famous room in the château is the Hall of Mirrors, which dates from the 13th century and is a pastiche of medieval and Renaissance architecture. It was the dream of Francois I into a style the Renaissance would call "l'antique," and it is thought to be one of the most civilized strolls in France. Inside, you will find the Sala del Trono, the Salle des Batailles, and the Salon des Muses, each with its own unique features and historical significance.

CHÂTEAU DE VINCENNES—
Built by King Louis XIV as a hunting lodge, the château was completed in 1662 and is now a museum dedicated to the history of France. The château is a testament to the grandeur of the French monarchy and the art of the Enlightenment. The château is now a museum and is open to the public.

CHÂTEAU DE LA VINEUIL—
This is the site of one of the most famous châteaux in France, with its magnificent gardens and the famous "Salle du Trône." The château is now a museum and is open to the public.

CHÂTEAU DE VERSAILLES—
This is the site of one of the most famous châteaux in France, with its magnificent gardens and the famous "Salle du Trône." The château is now a museum and is open to the public.

CHÂTEAU DE FONTAINEBLEAU—
Ubique le Vieux, Château de Fontainebleau is not the work of a single architect but rather a collaborative effort among many. The basilique Notre-Dame, the Great Twin Towers, and the Salle du Trône are probably the most famous structures, but the château itself is a vast complex of buildings. The Hall of Mirrors, perhaps the most famous space, is a pastiche of medieval and Renaissance architecture, with its textbook examples of flying buttresses, fine stonework, and intricate wood carvings. Perhaps the most famous room in the château is the Hall of Mirrors, which dates from the 13th century and is a pastiche of medieval and Renaissance architecture. It was the dream of Francois I into a style the Renaissance would call "l'antique," and it is thought to be one of the most civilized strolls in France. Inside, you will find the Sala del Trono, the Salle des Batailles, and the Salon des Muses, each with its own unique features and historical significance.

CHÂTEAU DE VINCENNES—
Built by King Louis XIV as a hunting lodge, the château was completed in 1662 and is now a museum dedicated to the history of France. The château is a testament to the grandeur of the French monarchy and the art of the Enlightenment. The château is now a museum and is open to the public.

CHÂTEAU DE LA VINEUIL—
This is the site of one of the most famous châteaux in France, with its magnificent gardens and the famous "Salle du Trône." The château is now a museum and is open to the public.

CHÂTEAU DE VERSAILLES—
This is the site of one of the most famous châteaux in France, with its magnificent gardens and the famous "Salle du Trône." The château is now a museum and is open to the public.

CHÂTEAU DE FONTAINEBLEAU—
Ubique le Vieux, Château de Fontainebleau is not the work of a single architect but rather a collaborative effort among many. The basilique Notre-Dame, the Great Twin Towers, and the Salle du Trône are probably the most famous structures, but the château itself is a vast complex of buildings. The Hall of Mirrors, perhaps the most famous space, is a pastiche of medieval and Renaissance architecture, with its textbook examples of flying buttresses, fine stonework, and intricate wood carvings. Perhaps the most famous room in the château is the Hall of Mirrors, which dates from the 13th century and is a pastiche of medieval and Renaissance architecture. It was the dream of Francois I into a style the Renaissance would call "l'antique," and it is thought to be one of the most civilized strolls in France. Inside, you will find the Sala del Trono, the Salle des Batailles, and the Salon des Muses, each with its own unique features and historical significance.

CHÂTEAU DE VINCENNES—
Built by King Louis XIV as a hunting lodge, the château was completed in 1662 and is now a museum dedicated to the history of France. The château is a testament to the grandeur of the French monarchy and the art of the Enlightenment. The château is now a museum and is open to the public.

CHÂTEAU DE LA VINEUIL—
This is the site of one of the most famous châteaux in France, with its magnificent gardens and the famous "Salle du Trône." The château is now a museum and is open to the public.

CHÂTEAU DE VERSAILLES—
This is the site of one of the most famous châteaux in France, with its magnificent gardens and the famous "Salle du Trône." The château is now a museum and is open to the public.
the likes of Poussin, Botticelli and Raphael. It is an astonishing and the Petit Château now comprise Fontainebleau School, a 16th-century team fireplaces. They are representative of the keeping with the period. For scholars, an amazing collection of decorative arts from 42 acres is the home of the superb 11 miles to Paris and is a fine starting point for an "Smiling Angel." The structure was begun in 1211. Among the "jardin à la française" style. But the gardens, designed by Brun's frescoed ceilings of dancing 21 miles to Paris. That's when the Prix du Jockey-Club was completed, and Louis XIV was 72 when the Salle du Trône, stroll through the such as the horseshoe-shaped grand stair-

CHÂTEAU DE VOUYOME -
11 miles

The latter was the appropriately named Avenue du de flax, water lilies, the carpet of nasturtiums and cases called "tertres" to the Eure River. Outside, the vast waterworks and formal 55 miles to Rouen. The grounds, was a favorite retreat of Marie Antoinette's.

ST-GERMAIN-EN-LAYE –
38 miles

The major gateway to Paris and the rest of the city. The other highlight of Reims is the height of the châteaux is the pastry shop Bouchon de Chartres, which is a native of France and is known for its "terrine de foie gras".

TROYES –
52 miles

Here you can sample national "andouillettes" specialities of the region.

BEAUVAIS –
51 miles

The Cathédrale St-Pierre is a great Gothic church, the Cathédrale of Chartres is one of the three Originals of a Romanesque structure when it was built in 1160. It was restored in 1856. It was reconstructed in a 25-year period, with peasant and royalty looking side by side. The taller space is Flaubert, the house where Flaubert lived. His most famous work, "Madame Bovary"

Béarnais - a region known for its great cathedrals, the Cathédrale de Chartres is one of them. Originally a Romanesque church, it was begun in 1160. It was restored in 1856. It was reconstructed in a 25-year period, with peasant and royalty looking side by side. The taller space is Flaubert, the house where Flaubert lived. His most famous work, "Madame Bovary"

Boyer has dazzled visitors with his cuisine and is a "two stars." 64, bd. Henry-Vasnier, Reims.

The Cathédrale St-Pierre is a great Gothic church. The Cathédrale of Chartres is one of the three Originals of a Romanesque structure when it was built in 1160. It was restored in 1856. It was reconstructed in a 25-year period, with peasant and royalty looking side by side. The taller space is Flaubert, the house where Flaubert lived. His most famous work, "Madame Bovary"

Bols became a native. By all means stop at Musée Flaubert, the house where Flaubert lived. His most famous work, "Madame Bovary"

THE HISTORIC CITY OF LOUVIÈRE –
14 miles

This former coach house and stables is now a dining room and garden restaurant. The original structure was built for Madame de Pompadour, the woman who was thought to have been Louis XV's favorite.
ON THIS TOUR, you'll make a grand circle around Paris, visiting cathedrals and the great châteaux, as well as tasting the finest champagne in the world. You'll travel through the Ile de France, an area beloved by French royalty, who built the great châteaux of Fontainebleau, Vaux-le-Vicomte and Versailles here. It's an area where you stroll through the formal gardens of André le Nôtre, which are as appealing now as they were three centuries ago. Later, you'll explore the caves of Champagne, where the great vintages can be tasted. There's an abundance of Gothic cathedrals, a museum to horses and horse racing, and medieval streets to explore. You'll walk in the footsteps of Joan of Arc and Gustave Flaubert, inhabit Madame Bovary's world, and see Claude Monet's beloved water lilies. This exploration is for those who love France's majestic architectural heritage, its very best vineyards and its well-preserved past.

FRANCE: CATHEDRALS, CHÂTEAUX & CHAMPAGNE

PERSONALLY YOURS®

Personally Yours is a collection of free, unique pre-printed itineraries covering popular driving tours in Europe. Each itinerary provides mileage between the towns mentioned (essential for pre-planning) plus history, cultural and scenic highlights based on recent drives. The route is traced on a large-scale numbered Michelin map which Avis recommends renters purchase before departure.

FRANCE: CATHEDRALS, CHÂTEAUX & CHAMPAGNE

PERSONALIZED TO DESTINATION

BRITAIN
Bath & the Cotswolds
The Scottish Highlands
Great Gothic Cathedrals & Southern Coast

FRANCE
Côte d'Azur
Normandy & Brittany
Rhône-Alpes Region
Loire Valley Châteaux & Burgundy
Nice to Paris
Cathedrals, Châteaux & Champagne

GERMANY
Munich, Prague and Berlin
Romantic Route—Munich to Frankfurt

ITALY
Tuscany
Northern Lakes to the Adriatic & Tuscany

MEXICO
Yucatán Peninsula

PORTUGAL
Lisbon to the Algarve

SPAIN
Madrid to Barcelona
Madrid South to Andalucía

AVIS PROVIDES RENTERS WITH A FREE GLOBAL CELL PHONE

Avis' Stay in Touch provides renters with 7 days of free, global roaming cell phones. The cell phone is delivered to the renter's home/office with personal business cards prior to departure. Renters pay airtime charges and $25 for overnight delivery and collection.

AVIS ON CALL

Avis' exclusive telephone assistance service, available only to Avis renters while on the road in 35 countries (31 in Europe) via toll-free telephone numbers that are announced by Avis representatives in the USA 24 hours, 7 days/week.

AVIS MESSAGE CENTER

Avis' exclusive international round-the-clock laser and remote message center, offered in 31 countries worldwide (31 in Europe) via special toll-free numbers for each country. Service is available exclusively to Avis renters on the road at no charge 24 hours a day, 7 days/week for unlimited use.

AVIS KNOW BEFORE YOU GO

Avis' exclusive telephone travel information service for 41 countries worldwide (32 in Europe). Offered at no charge to Avis renters via a toll-free number in the USA 24 hours, 7 days/week.

Major European Country Information
National holidays by country
Major airports
Local car rental companies
Time Zone charts
Weather charts
European vs. American car capacity

Global Information
List of cities and airports
List of cities and airports
List of major airline offices
List of major car rental companies
List of major car rental companies
List of major car rental companies
List of major car rental companies
List of major car rental companies

AVIS, the largest purchaser of cars in Europe

For reservations, call 1-800-698-5674 or your travel agent.
Visit us online at www.avis.com

©MICHELIN from Map No. 721 France. Permission No. 03-US-001

France: Cathedrals, Châteaux & Champagne

FRANCE: CATHEDRALS, CHÂTEAUX & CHAMPAGNE

ON THIS TOUR, you'll make a grand circle around Paris, visiting cathedrals and the great châteaux, as well as tasting the finest champagne in the world. You'll travel through the Île de France, an area beloved by French royalty, who built the great châteaux of Fontainebleau, Vaux-le-Vicomte and Versailles here. It's an area where you stroll through the formal gardens of André le Nôtre, which are as appealing now as they were three centuries ago. Later, you'll explore the caves of Champagne, where the great vintages can be tasted. There's an abundance of Gothic cathedrals, a museum to horses and horse racing, and medieval streets to explore. You'll walk in the footsteps of Joan of Arc and Gustave Flaubert, inhabit Madame Bovary's world, and see Claude Monet's beloved water lilies. This exploration is for those who love France's majestic architectural heritage, its very best vineyards and its well-preserved past.